Summary

The Transparent Ranking of Universities is an initiative of the Cybermetrics Lab, a research group of the Instituto de Políticas y Bienes Públicos del Consejo Superior de Investigaciones Científicas (Spain). It consists of more than 6300 higher education institutions ranked by the number of citations received by the top researchers of each institution according to their public Google Scholar profile. The data is obtained from filtering by the web/email domain of the university the top 310 profiles and then excluding the first 20 for avoiding outliers. Universities can be excluded if they have non-individual profiles or a several unclear or incorrect profiles. The data is used for the indicator Openness of the Ranking Web (Webometrics) of the Universities. Data were collected during the first weeks of January 2025.

Keywords: Google Scholar; Ranking of Universities; Bibliometrics; Webometrics; Openness; Personal profiles

Introduction

This is the 19th edition of the Ranking of Universities based on the number of citations of the top Google Scholar profiles of scholars currently affiliated with them. The ranking started 8 years ago and has been published every January and July. The data is to be merged as the Transparent (Openness) indicator in the next edition of the Ranking Web of Universities, usually scheduled for the last week of January 2025.

Criteria for Inclusion/Exclusion

All the Higher Education Institutions covered by the Ranking Web of Universities are candidates to be included, but only those with at least 1000 citations in Google Scholar profiles, as described in the methodology, are shown in this paper. However, all of them are considered for the final Ranking Web. Universities are excluded from the ranking if: a) They include non-individual profiles (journals, departments, groups, conferences). b) The list of profiles includes several profiles of authors not belonging to the university, intentionally added to increase its rank, or there are many incorrect (unedited, incomplete, or erroneous) profiles. It is almost impossible for our team to check all of them, so we strongly advise contacting local and academic authorities in these cases. In such cases, the whole institution is excluded and the citation count equals zero.

Methodology

The data was compiled from the Google Scholar Citations database during the first two weeks of January 2025. The GSC profiles were filtered using the institutional email domain of the universities, as shown in this example:

https://scholar.google.com/citations?hl=es&view_op=search_authors&mauthors=monash.edu

The email domain should be the same as the main web domain used in the Ranking Web. No combinations or mergers are allowed. Citations from the top 310 public profiles of each university are collected. This number of profiles allows size-independent comparisons. The top TWENTY (20) profiles of the list are EXCLUDED to improve representativeness by removing outliers. For the rest of the top profiles, the number of citations is added and the institutions are ranked in descending order of this indicator. The figures are valid only at the time of collection (around January 1-15, 2025). This paper consists only of top entries, those with more than 1000 citations. More than 6,100 HEIs are listed, but there are non-zero numbers for another 3,000 additional institutions.

Setting up a personal profile in the Google Scholar Citations database is voluntary, but once it is made public, the responsibility for info correctness belongs to the author. GSC automatically updates the profiles, which, although very practical, sometimes adds non-pertinent records and citations to the profile. Authors should be aware of these issues and clean their profiles periodically. Additionally, institutions should monitor their members' profiles for intentional (or unintentional) fake, incorrect, or duplicate records. This is key for the ranking as any institution with these problems can be excluded from future editions of the ranking. Please contact Google Scholar directly for any aspects related to its database or profiles.
